

So, I decided to submit to box[ur]shorts™ Film Festival – now what?

selection process: Your film will be viewed by the festival producer(s), who will notify you whether or not your short will be considered to play in the competition.

notification: In an email box[ur]shorts™ Film Festival will notify you about the acceptance. Upon receiving the good news, make sure to send your exhibition copy along with the final trailer to the festival within ten days.

screening in the box: Your movie will then screen in the festival boxes during one of the following quarterly programs:

- Winter program starts in January
- Spring program starts in April
- Summer program starts in June
- Fall program starts on in October

This means that your film will run 10 times a day or more in multiple locations around the world for a time span of 2 to 3 months! The idea is to bring your film to the audience instead of bringing the audience to your film. Make sense?

screening on the website: Your movie will also stream and be archived on the official festival website. You are free to use this service or not, it's up to you. At all times, a teaser/trailer for will be in place on the Internet to get people interested.

awards night: A panel of judges will determine the finalists from all movies in competition and rank them for our countdown screening at the annual event. It's time to celebrate! The following awards are given to the winners:

1. Golden box[ur]shorts™ Award (1st place)
2. Silver box[ur]shorts™ Award (2nd place)
3. Bronze box[ur]shorts™ Award (3rd place)
4. box[ur]shorts™ Best Student Film Award
5. box[ur]shorts™ Audience Choice Award

a new kind of film festival: The bottom line is that we want to provide a new and more suitable venue for short films. While a any other festival will screen your film in a one-time/one-night screening where most likely your crew, cast, friends and family will make up 90% of the audience, box[ur]shorts™ Film Festival aims to give you maximum exposure at multiple locations where a new audience can enjoy your magic. Send us your films... We can't wait to work with you!
